Overview

Jennifer Judin is a seasoned attorney renowned for her experience in asbestos litigation, silica litigation, personal injury and products liability cases. She provides trial counsel for a diverse array of clients, including manufacturers, suppliers and distributors of asbestos- and silica-containing products, as well as fiber suppliers, across the United States.

Specializing in defending entities involved in the production and distribution of asbestos-containing construction materials, friction products, and raw asbestos and talc, Jennifer has amassed extensive experience as first-chair trial counsel in numerous jurisdictions nationwide, showcasing her mastery in this complex field.

In addition to her focus in asbestos litigation, products liability and personal injury cases, Jennifer has demonstrated proficiency in various other legal areas. Notably, she has adeptly navigated employment disputes, achieving favorable outcomes for her clients. Furthermore, Jennifer has effectively represented clients in general insurance defense matters, showcasing her versatility and commitment to providing comprehensive legal counsel.
