Overview

Misha focuses her practice on toxic tort litigation matters, handling the various phases of litigation from inception to trial.

Before joining MG+M, Misha was an associate at a New Jersey-based firm. There, she focused on mass tort litigation from inception to trial, served as second chair in a few trials and obtained numerous dismissals for her clients in New Jersey and New York. She also advised clients in product liability and employment discrimination matters.

Prior to entering private practice, Misha honed her skills by serving as a judicial intern for the Hon. Vincent LeBlon, J.S.C. in the Middlesex County Superior Court Law Division. While in law school, she contributed to the Rutgers Intellectual Property Law Clinic, advising clients on business and trademark matters, filing trademarks and maintaining trademark registrations.
