Overview

Tiffany Ross focuses her practice on toxic tort matters. She brings broad experience across industries, including finance, regulatory compliance, pharmaceuticals, and real estate transactions.

Tiffany earned her JD from Saint Louis University School of Law in December 2015 and her BS from the University of Missouri–St. Louis. She began her litigation career at the Missouri Attorney General's Office, where she focused on administrative law, professional license discipline, and expungements. She later handled asbestos litigation, premises liability, and insurance defense as an associate.

A Saint Louis, Missouri native, Tiffany is admitted to practice in Missouri and the US District Court for the Eastern District of Missouri.
