Overview

Robert is an experienced litigation attorney who has tried, mediated, and arbitrated a variety of cases in state and federal courts in each of the three jurisdictions in which he is licensed to practice law—California, Oregon, and Washington.

For over 30 years he has counseled and defended clients in disputes related to products and premises liability, environmental and toxic torts, personal injury, construction defect, and defamation. He has managed and litigated hundreds of cases for Fortune 500 corporations, manufacturers, suppliers, distributors, construction companies, trucking companies, and medical professionals. Much of his work involves complex multi-party civil litigation.
