Overview

Kaylin focuses her practice on asbestos litigation, products liability, complex tort litigation, and general liability.

Before joining MG+M The Law Firm as an associate, Kaylin worked as a law clerk at the firm, where she contributed research and writing for Thomson Reuters' Louisiana Civil Trial Procedure, 2025 edition, and assisted on cases involving asbestos, products liability and general defense matters.

She previously interned with the Honorable Ellen M. Creel in the 22nd Judicial District Court of Louisiana and served as a research assistant to Professor Sandi S. Varnado, supporting publication of the Louisiana Family Law Treatise and the law review article "A History of Child Marriage in the United States." Kaylin also clerked with Southeast Louisiana Legal Services in its domestic violence and family law divisions.

During law school, Kaylin competed as an oralist in the Tulane Mardi Gras Moot Court Invitational and served as Magister of the Phi Delta Phi Legal Honor Society. She was a member of the Loyola Journal of Public Interest Law, in which she published an article.
