Overview

Chelsie Liberty focuses her practice on general liability matters. She represents businesses, government entities, and individuals in premises liability, general tort, and construction defect litigation. Her experience includes all phases of litigation, from initial investigation and pleadings through discovery, motion practice, mediation, settlement, and trial preparation.

Chelsie also advises clients on contractual indemnity and coverage issues arising from tenders of defense. In addition, she assists nonparties in responding to third-party subpoenas and protecting their interests in related matters. Her approach emphasizes practical guidance grounded in factual and legal analysis.

Before joining MG+M, Chelsie advised clients in highly regulated industries on litigation and regulatory risk matters. That experience informs her approach to litigation strategy and aligning legal objectives with clients' broader business priorities.
