Overview

Jenn Crittondon defends clients in complex, high-exposure litigation, including catastrophic personal injury, transportation, construction defect, and toxic tort matters. Her practice emphasizes multi-party litigation, risk management, and early resolution, and includes rapid-response investigation, trial monitoring, and all phases of trial preparation and strategy.

Jenn regularly represents clients in multi-party and catastrophic injury matters, where she develops and executes defense strategies tailored to the unique risks of each case. She leads litigation teams, collaborates with clients and insurance carriers, and evaluates exposure to guide effective resolution strategies. Her experience includes taking and defending depositions of parties, experts, and treating physicians; preparing and arguing dispositive motions; and managing pre-trial submissions in accordance with court requirements.

In addition to her trial work, Jenn is involved in all aspects of case strategy, from early assessment through discovery and mediation. She prepares detailed case evaluations and works closely with clients to analyze potential outcomes and identify practical paths to resolution. She has successfully represented clients in high-stakes matters, including securing a non-suit following a multiweek trial.

Jenn joined MG+M from a leading Orange County business, employment, and construction liability firm, where she served as a partner defending clients in catastrophic personal injury and construction defect matters. She previously served as senior counsel at a national litigation firm, where she handled catastrophic injury, construction defect, and toxic tort cases. Earlier in her career, she represented Fortune 500 companies in personal injury litigation throughout Northern California, including in rapid-response roles involving post-accident investigation and early case strategy.
