Overview

Alexander Blume focuses his practice on toxic tort and environmental matters.

Before joining MG+M, Alexander represented clients in complex environmental and toxic tort litigation involving PFAS contamination, industrial pollution, and other mass tort claims. His experience includes all phases of litigation, including discovery, motion practice, expert witness preparation, depositions, and settlement negotiations. He has drafted and argued pretrial motions in federal court, managed complex discovery issues, and conducted legal and scientific research to support litigation strategy.

During law school, Alexander gained experience in environmental, insurance, and real estate matters through legal roles with the Pace Land Use Law Center and private practice firms. He also served as a legal intern to the general counsel of a national financial services company, where he worked on matters involving data privacy, consumer finance, and regulatory compliance.

Alexander is fluent in Spanish.
