Overview

Emma focuses her practice on toxic tort and silicosis matters. She represents corporate and individual clients through all phases of litigation, including discovery, depositions, and motion practice.

Before joining MG+M, Emma gained experience handling silicosis matters and has continued that work at the firm. Her experience also includes family law and environmental law.

During law school, Emma served as chairman of the Moot Court Board and gained experience through legal roles involving litigation, environmental issues, and nonprofit organizations.
