Overview

Rebecca Jones focuses her practice on complex civil litigation. She has nearly 12 years of California litigation experience, including extensive work in discovery, motion practice, and court appearances. She has practiced extensively in Contra Costa County courts, developing a strong familiarity with local judges, procedures, and practices. Rebecca began her legal career supporting construction defect defense litigation, which provided a foundation in complex civil defense matters.

Rebecca served as president of the Barristers Section of the Contra Costa County Bar Association, where she helped organize programming and professional development opportunities for newer attorneys.

Committed to increasing access to justice, Rebecca has provided pro bono representation to survivors of domestic violence through the Family Justice Center, STAND! for Families Free of Violence, and Tri-Valley Haven.
