In an article for Aviation Week Network, MG+M Partner Brian Gross and Law Clerk Sonia Niekrasz discuss regulations around the use of per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS) in the United States and Europe and the impact of these regulations on the aviation industry.

Exerpt: Due to increased public awareness, PFAS regulation has exploded over the past few years, with additional regulations on the horizon. These regulations will have a tremendous impact on the aviation industry. As a result, aviation companies should immediately begin assessing the impact on their business to determine a strategy moving forward. In addition, they must begin preparation for litigation that is likely on the horizon.
