MG+M Dallas Office Relocates in Santander Tower

August 5, 2025

MG+M The Law Firm's Dallas office has moved to a larger space at 1601 Elm Street, Suite 4050, driven by our continued growth and deepening presence in the Texas legal market. Located in the same building as our previous office, this new space accommodates additional personnel and provides room for further expansion to continue meeting the complex legal needs of companies operating in the region.

Our Dallas office remains a critical pillar of our national trial work, with key members of our National Trial Team and toxic tort and products liability practices based here. In the toxic torts arena, MG+M's presence in Texas continues to play an integral role in our effective defense of clients in asbestos, talc and silica litigation. Additionally, MG+M has forged a strong relationship with Baylor University School of Law, including as the sponsor of its annual National Top Gun Mock Trial Competition for the past four consecutive years, and we recognize Texas as a prolific recruiting base for diverse local and national talent.

“When we began plans for our Dallas office, we strategically signed a short-term lease that would allow us to increase our square footage as we built out our Texas roster,” says MG+M Chairperson and Partner John B. Manning. “With targeted recruitment in the area spanning from lateral partners to law students, this move is the fulfilment of that plan, not only signifying our continued growth but also further enhancing our ability to serve the evolving legal needs of our clients in Texas and nationwide.”

The office's founding partners, David Fisher, Brent Karren, Jeanette Riggins and William Shultz, had extensive rosters of Texas clients before MG+M formalized our longstanding presence in the state in early 2023. We have since been joined by three additional incredibly impressive trial lawyers in Dallas, Jennifer Judin, Misti Mosteller and Missy Leon, each with exceptional backgrounds, experience and track records in court. The partners on the Dallas team maintain robust national practices and have local and national trial capability in a range of practice areas, including products liability litigation, toxic tort and asbestos litigation, environmental and PFAS litigation, construction litigation, general liability, business and corporate litigation, and more.

Located in one of Dallas' premier business locations in the heart of the historic downtown Main Street district, our office offers easy access to area courthouses and major transportation arteries, as well as a vibrant array of dining options and local attractions within walking distance. The iconic 50-story Santander Tower offers dramatic views of the city, the Trinity River and East Dallas, and boasts a hotel on its top two floors. We are conveniently located less than 30 minutes from both Dallas Love Field Airport and Dallas Fort Worth International Airport, and just a few minutes' walk from multiple DART lines and stops.

MG+M's Wilmington, Delaware, office also relocated last month, similarly driven by our growing team and increasing demand for our services. We look forward to welcoming clients and colleagues to our new offices as we continue to build on our success in these regions and from each of our office locations across the United States.
